LaFrance to Be Dean in Oregon

Professor Arthur B. LaFrance, on the Law School faculty since 1973, is the new dean of Lewis and Clark College's Northwestern School of Law in Portland, Oregon. He assumed the deanship on August 1.

Professor LaFrance served as Acting Associate Dean of the Law School during 1980-81 with major administrative duties in the areas of academic affairs and CLE programs. He has also chaired committees of admissions and curriculum at the Law School.

The selection of LaFrance concluded an eight month search by a committee at Lewis and Clark representing the law school and undergraduate college faculties, board of trustees, law students and alumni. It reviewed more than 100 applications and conducted 24 separate interviews before making its recommendation. President James A. Gardner of Lewis and Clark said LaFrance's selection was consistent with the college and law school's desire to attract "an outstanding dean broadly interested in legal education and research who has both stature and leadership in the field of law."

Dean L. Kinvin Wroth said: "We don't like to see Art leave us, but we all wish him well in the challenging task ahead of him. He has made many major contributions to the School of Law through his teaching and publications, and he has carried many administrative and other responsibilities effectively and uncomplainingly. The students, faculty, staff, and I will miss him, but we are honored that one of our number has been selected for this position."

While at the Law School, Professor LaFrance coordinated training programs in federal litigation for six years through Legal Services Corp. of Washington, D.C. Here in Maine he has directed programs in continuing legal education involving practicing attorneys in criminal and civil litigation. He presently is codirecting a federally funded University of Maine project to evaluate adult protective services for the aging. He is also the author of three books, two in the area of social welfare law and one on federal litigation.

Professor LaFrance has been active in school and political affairs locally, serving as well on the legal panel of the Maine Civil Liberties Union and as President of Pine Tree Legal Assistance. He was on sabbatical during the 1980-81 academic year and worked with the Legal Aid Society of Hawaii. During his tenure at the Law School Art was active in litigation, appearing before the Supreme and Federal Courts of Maine and Hawaii.

LaFrance, who earned his BA from Dartmouth and J.D. from Yale, will be overseeing a law school that enrolls 467 students in its day division and another 263 in its evening division. Northwestern's campus is only minutes from downtown Portland. The school has 24 full-time faculty members, augmented by local attorneys and judges who teach courses in their specialties.

Professor Arthur B. LaFrance

LaFrance commented on his nine years at the Law School by saying: "During my stay here at Maine, it was my good fortune to be blessed with good students and good colleagues. I shall miss them and I shall miss Maine. I wouldn't change a minute of my nine years here (except possibly for last April's blizzard and the ice storm of the previous May)."

LAW LIBRARY NEWS

The Donald L. Garbrecht Law Library has begun two new services for our patrons. The first is a monthly acquisitions newsletter that will go to faculty, students and members of the Law Library Association. We have also created a computerized list of our periodical titles and holdings. The list is currently on tape and includes all titles, title changes and holdings, as well as location. A new program is also being written that will allow us to make changes in the list on-line. The original programs were developed cooperatively with the Library of the University of Southern Maine to provide separate lists. A program that will provide a union list of holdings of the Law Library and the University Libraries is also planned.

The Donald L. Garbrecht Law Library has recently formed a membership association for attorney users. Library Associates will pay yearly dues in return for reduced rates for library service. Attorneys who do not become Associates will be billed for services at higher rates. The membership rates are set on a sliding scale based on years since first bar admission.

Information about the Library Association will be mailed to attorneys in August for the membership year beginning September 1, 1982.

The Law Library is making WESTLAW available to attorneys during those hours when the database is inaccessible to law school users under an academic contract. This will allow attorneys who do not have a legal research database in their office access to one at the usual rate for a public terminal, plus a small charge to cover library costs. Terms of use are outlined below.

1. Attorneys who have had formal WESTLAW training will be allowed to run searches unassisted. Otherwise, an attorney must be assisted by a member of the library reference staff. Reference staff members will assist only when an attorney or his representative is present. Training is not available through the Law Library at this time. West will provide training at the rate of $280 per day for up to eight persons.

Two days during the month of August will be reserved for formal WESTLAW training sessions for attorneys. Please call the library (780-4350) for more information.

2. WESTLAW will be available to attorneys between the hours of 2:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. weekdays. Attorneys may reserve, in advance, one hour time blocks on the WESTLAW terminal by calling the reference department at 780-4350 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Time slots not reserved will be assigned on a first come, first served basis.
3. Attorneys may have indirect access to WESTLAW through the Student Research Service. See attached description. WESTLAW time will be billed at the appropriate rate below through the Research Service.
4. Attorneys who wish to use WESTLAW must register for billing purposes prior to initial use of the computer. Bills will be issued on a monthly basis, and must be paid within 30 days of the date of the bill. Attorneys with delinquent accounts will be denied further access to WESTLAW.
5. A WESTLAW price schedule is set out below. A minimum charge of $65 for members and $75 for nonmembers will be incurred for each use of the terminal. Use time in excess of one-half hour will be billed at the hourly rate for actual time used.

WESTLAW PRICE SCHEDULE

Hours of Use	Hourly Cost to Members		Hourly Cost to Nonmembers
	Assisted	Unassisted	Assisted	Unassisted
Minimum Charge	$ 65.00	$ 50.00	$ 75.00	$ 60.00

Levins to be Maine Law Review Editor-In-Chief

Anmarie Levins, a member of the Class of 1983, has been elected editor-in-chief of The Maine Law Review for 1982-83. A Brunswick native, she is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Brown University where she earned her B.A. in Political Science. She also holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in Political Science from Princeton University.

While at the Law School she has been an instructor for the Legal Writing and Research program. During the summer of 1981 she was an intern with the Maine Attorney General's Office, and this summer she has been a Summer Associate with the Washington, D.C. firm of Arnold and Porter.

Anmarie, who ranks first in her class, has accepted a position as a law clerk for 1983-84 with Judge James L. Oakes of the U.S. Court of Appeals, 2nd Circuit.

Brennan Names Two Law School Graduates to District Court

Two more Law School graduates have been tapped by Governor Joseph Brennan for seats on the Maine District Court. Earl J. Wahl, '62, and Ronald D. Russell, '72, were confirmed by the Legislature and have assumed their new duties.

Wahl, a Calais attorney, will sit in the District Court in Washington County. He is a member of Maine's Board of Environmental Protection and a former Cumberland County prosecutor. He has practiced in Calais for many years.

Russell, a member of the state Worker's Compensation Commission for nearly two years, is a District Court judge-at-large. He was with the Portland firm of Richardson, Tyler and Troubh from 1973 until 1980.

20/20 Campaign Passes ¼ Mark

The 1982 Alumni Fund Drive, "20/20", has passed the ¼ mark on its way to an announced goal of $20,000. Fund Drive Chairman, Bob Checkoway reports that almost $6,000 has been contributed or pledged to date, and expectations are high for a successful campaign this year. Total giving last year by alumni/ae was just over $12,000.

The "20/20" theme has its origins in this being the 20th anniversary of the first graduation from the newly established Law School following merger with Portland University. To honor that anniversary, the Alumni Association has committed itself to raise $20,000 for a variety of Law School programs and scholarships.

The Campaign was officially kicked off at a reception for Class Agents and Alumni Association Board of Directors on May 27 at the Law School.

Volunteering their time and efforts as Class Agents this year are the following graduates:

1981-	Eve Cimmet
1980-	Rick Shinay
1979-	Ann Mohnkern
1978-	Steve Moriarty
1977-	Sandy Collier
1976-	Susan Hunter
1975-	Murrough O'Brien
1974-	Paul Chaiken
1973-	Derry Rundlett
1972-	Peter DeTroy
1971-	Ken Snitger
1970-	John Welch
1969-	David Hawkes
1968-	David Smith
1967-	Rendle Jones
1966-1962	John Wlodkowski, '64
1961-1951	Dave Silsby, '58
1950-	Franklin Stearns

Your tax-deductible contribution can help make this year's campaign a successful drive. Checks should be made payable to the University of Maine Law Alumni Association and mailed to the Alumni Office, 246 Deering Avenue, Portland, Maine 04102.

Hathaway to Teach Course in Law and Public Policy

Former U.S. Senator William D. Hathaway has been appointed Lecturer and Visiting Scholar in Law and Public Policy for the fall semester 1982.

Mr. Hathaway will teach a two credit seminar in Legislative Advocacy which he now offers at the Georgetown University Law Center in Washington. In addition, he will be available for work with other USM academic departments and for consultation in the development of USM's new public policy and management graduate program.

Mr. Hathaway's appointment is made possible in part by an award from the office of the Provost of funds to support a visiting scholar.

Marine Law Institute Receives Grant

The Marine Law Institute has received a $125,000 grant from the Donner Foundation of New York for a two-year study of bi-national decision-making processes as illustrated in the Pittston Oil Refinery case and the Bay of Fundy Tidal Power controversy.

Research will be carried out under the direction of Alison Reiser of the Institute and Dr. Judith Spiller of the Center for the Study of Complex Systems at the University of New Hampshire. They will coordinate with members of the Dalhousie Law School's Ocean Studies Program.

Freehling to Be New Law Librarian

Daniel J. Freehling, will assume the position of Head Law Librarian and Associate Professor of Law at the Law School on November 15. He is currently Assistant Law Librarian and Head of Public Services at the Cornell Law Library, and prior to that was Associate Law Librarian at the University of Maryland.

Mr. Freehling received his J.D. in 1975 from the University of Alabama School of Law and his M.L.S. from the University of Alabama Graduate School of Library Science in 1977. A member of the Florida Bar and the American Bar Association, he has been at Cornell since August 1979. He has been active in the American Association of Law Libraries (AALL).

Gardner Appointed Director of Legal Writing

Laurence Gardner, '81, has been appointed Director of Legal Writing at the Law School and will be responsible for organizing and implementing the First-Year Legal Writing and Research Course.

Gardner, who started in his new position on August 1, clerked for Justice Stephen Perkins on the Maine Superior Court during 1981-82. While at the Law School he was a legal writing instructor and a member of the Moot Court Board. During the summer of 1980 he was an intern with the District Attorney's Office in Washington County.

IN MEMORIAM

Thomas J. Guilfoyle, '51, on April 24, 1982, in Portland. He was a veteran of World War II and practiced in Skowhegan for many years before retiring in 1965. He was 69.

Claude J. Bourget, '52, on May 13, 1982, in Augusta. He was a veteran of World War I and practiced on State Street in Augusta with his son, Norman, '65, until his retirement. He was former Corporation Counsel for the City of Augusta and the last Municipal Court judge in Augusta. He was 84.

Earl L. Wing, '14, on March 18, 1982, in Florida. Judge Wing was a legislator, a county attorney, a judge of Franklin County and Franklin County Judge of Probate. He had been a member of the Franklin County Bar since 1915 and was a long-time resident of Kingfield. He was 94.

Alumni/ae Meet in Bath, Boston, Kennebunkport and Burlington

Vermont alumni met at a special reception during the Vermont Bar Association Midwinter Meeting on March 19 in Burlington. Dean L. Kinvin Wroth and Maine Supreme Court Justice Daniel E. Wathen, '65, were on hand to greet graduates. Both Dean Wroth and Justice Wathen were panelists at the Bar Meeting.

The Wife of Bath Restaurant was the scene of the Bath-Brunswick Alumni Luncheon on Friday May 7. Alumni Association President Charlie Priest, '74, welcomed those attending. In attendance from the Law School were Dean Wroth, Professor Arthur B. LaFrance, and Placement/Alumni Director John Ackerman. LaFrance, continuing the tradition of faculty speakers at alumni luncheons, outlined his research for a proposed law review article on the decisions of the late Justice Harry Glassman. Wroth discussed the high points of the 1981-82 academic year including news of faculty and the addition of a computer-assisted legal research system in the Law Library.

Special thanks go to Peter Fessenden, '74, for organizing the luncheon. Other graduates attending included: Ron Hart, '58; Richard Elliott, '65; Richard Smith, '73; Ralph Tucker, '74; Jack Clifford, '76; Jon Reitman, '78; Bill Leonard, '80; Mary Gay Russell, '80; Ed Catlin, '81; and Erna Koch, '81.

Boston area graduates had their annual dinner at The Steak Place in Newton on Friday May 21. Jay Theise, '70, was the organizer, and his efforts resulted in the largest gathering of Eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island graduates. Dean Wroth and former Dean Ed Godfrey, now an Associate Justice of the Maine Supreme Judicial Court, made the trek down from Maine to join in the reunion and add to the festivities.

An alumni reception was held at The Colony in Kennebunkport on Monday June 21. Many Maine alumni/ae attended the reception which was held in conjunction with the Maine Bar Association Summer Meeting.

Law School Grads Vie for Top Maine Political Posts

Maine politics will have a decided Law School flavor until November, and there is a possibility that both U.S. House seats and the Blaine House could be occupied by UMLS graduates.

The only uncertainty about the gubernatorial race is which Law School alumnus will run Maine for the next four years. Incumbent Democratic Governor Joseph E. Brennan, '63, and Republican challenger Charles L. Cragin, '70, won their respective primaries in June and will face off in the Fall for the job Brennan has held for the past four years. Regardless of who wins, it will continue the stretch of Law School grads occupying the Blaine House which started in 1967. Kenneth M. Curtis, '59, was governor from 1967 to 1975, and the late James B. Longley, '57, governed Maine from 1975 to 1979.

The U.S. House race in the First District puts John R. McKernan, '74, against John Kerry. McKernan, a Republican and former state legislator easily won his primary, while Kerry won the Democratic nod in a primary squeaker over Phil Merrill, '74. McKernan, originally from Bangor, is a partner with Verrill and Dana as is Cragin.

Maine's Second District U.S. House race features a fight between Democratic challenger James P. Dunleavy, '68, of Presque Isle, and incumbent Republican Olympia Snowe. Dunleavy, who won a tight primary from Bangor attorney Paul Zendzian, is a former state legislator and is the current Judge of Probate for Aroostook County.

Alumni Association President Charlie Priest (L) and Peter Fessenden, '74 flank Dean Wroth at the Bath-Brunswick Luncheon.

Ronald Hart, '58; Richard Elliott, '65; and Ralph Tucker, '74 (L to R) at the Alumni Luncheon in Bath on May 7.

Law School Faculty Chair CLE Meetings

Three Law School faculty members chaired Continuing Legal Education Programs during the Spring and Summer. Professor Judy Potter chaired a May 21-22 seminar at the Law School on Employment Discrimination Law and Management Skills. Panelists included Bob Moore '74, of Verrill and Dana.

Professor Robert Seibel chaired a seminar on June 11 on Negotiating Skills and Tactics for Attorneys. Alumni participating as panelists included David M. Cox, '63, District Attorney for Penobscot and Piscataquis Counties, and the Hon. Daniel E. Wathen, '65, Associate Justice of the Maine Supreme Judicial Court.

Professor Arthur B. LaFrance chaired a seminar on Criminal Law and Procedure that was offered in Portland on June 26 and Bangor on July 10. Law School graduates who served as panelists at either or both locations included: Gene Libby, '78, Margaret Kravchuk, '76, Paula Silsby, '76, Francis Jackson, '77, Janet Mills, '76, and James Cloutier, '79. Also participating were: Michael Saucier, '78, Gary Thorne, '73, and Professors Melvyn Zarr and David Cluchey.

Ed Catlin, '81, is now clerking for U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Frederick Johnson in Portland. Ed was formerly with Hart, Stinson, Lupton and Weiss in Bath.

Christopher H. Clancy, '63, who was listed as missing in the 1982 Alumni Directory, has been found. He is Professor of Law at Seton Hall University School of Law in Newark, New Jersey, and has been on the faculty there since 1973. Among his stops before Seton Hall were a two year stint as Director, Center on Social Welfare Policy and Law at Columbia University (1969-71); Director of the Mid-Hudson Valley Legal Services Project in 1971-72; and Associate Professor of Law at Texas Southern University Law School in 1972-73. His address is Seton Hall University Law School, 1111 Raymond Boulevard, Newark, New Jersey 07102.

Also listed as missing in the Alumni Directory was Linda Briggs Eide, '79. Her address now is 2419 8th Avenue North, Seattle, Washington 98109.

Kathryn Monahan Ainsworth, '76 and Thomas G. Ainsworth, '75 also are proud parents; Emily Monahan Ainsworth, born June 25, weighed in one month early at 6 lbs. 1½ oz.

Alumni Weekend Slated for October 1-2

Schedule of Events to Be Mailed Shortly

Plans are underway for the Annual Alumni Weekend which this year will occur on October 1-2. Steve Moriarty, '78, is coordinating the activities which will again be spread over a Friday and Saturday.

While details are still unavailable, it is likely that the annual Alumni Dinner will be held Friday evening and the Fourth Annual Faculty/Alumni/Student Road Race will go off around noon on Saturday. Moriarty, incidentally, will be back to defend the title he won in last year's road race when he set a course record of 23:07 for the flat four-mile course.

Information on all Alumni Weekend activities will be in the mail shortly. We especially invite members of the Classes of 1977, 1972, 1967, 1962, 1957 and 1952 to join us and to plan class reunions for their own. Anyone wishing to help organize such a class reunion should contact John Ackerman at the Alumni Office (780-4342).

LAW SCHOOL GRADUATES 69

Sixty-nine students were awarded the J.D. degree at the Law School graduation ceremonies on Sunday, May 30th. The ceremony was held in the University of Southern Maine gymnasium as rain forced the exercises indoors for the second straight year.

The degrees were conferred by Dean L. Kinvin Wroth and Frances M. Tucker, Registrar. The candidates for degrees were presented by Professor Orlando E. Delogu.

The Hon. Conrad K. Cyr, U.S. District Judge, District of Maine, was the featured speaker. In his remarks, Cyr praised the Law School for its outstanding contribution to the legal community in Maine and urged the graduates to work for the betterment of society.

Professor Martin A. Rogoff, Associate Dean, and Assistant Dean Mary Lou Dyer presented special awards to members of the Class of 1982. These awards were voted by the faculty.

Robert Joseph Plourde of Fort Kent received the Faculty Scholastic Achievement Award for having achieved the highest academic average over three years of law study. He will enter private practice in Van Buren.

Nancy Lynn Diesel of Hartford, Connecticut, was the recipient of the Cumberland Bar Association Award. That award goes to the graduating senior who, in the determination of the faculty, has made the greatest contribution to the development of the school through scholarship, work on the Maine Law Review, and other student activities. Nancy was editor-in-chief of the Law Review. She will clerk for Justice Gene Carter of the Maine Supreme Judicial Court.

The Faculty Significant Achievement Award was shared by Edward Felix Feibel of Millburn, New Jersey, and Carolyn Grahame Walker of Fryeburg, Maine. They were selected on the basis of their academic performance and overall contribution to the school. Ed will join the firm of Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver and Kampelman in Washington, D.C., and Carolyn will clerk for Judge Frederick Johnson in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Portland.

Thomas Joseph Connolly of Canton, Massachusetts was selected for the Faculty Award for Advocacy. That award is made to the graduating senior who has demonstrated excellence in advocacy skills through clinical practice, moot court, or other extra-curricular activities.

The Law Alumni/Alumnae Award, to persons who are outstanding members of the class, was shared by Thomas R. Watson of Woolwich and Florence Madeleine Braff of Cushing. Tom will join the firm of McTeague, Higbee and Libner in Brunswick.

Honored at the graduation were two members of the Law School's Class of 1962 on the 20th anniversary of their graduation from the Law School. That class of nine people was the first to graduate from the reestablished University of Maine School of Law following its merger with Portland University. The Hon. Carl O. Bradford of Yarmouth, Justice of the Maine Superior Court, and Robert Dulac, Esq. of Augusta, were on hand to represent their class.

Accorded special recognition at the ceremonies was Professor Arthur B. LaFrance who is leaving to assume the deanship at Lewis and Clark College's Northwestern Law School in Portland, Oregon. Art, on the law school faculty for nine years, will begin his new duties on August 1.

The Class of 1982 presented a sugar maple tree to the school as its class gift. The tree, which is already in place on the south side of the Law School building, was given in memory of Paula Michaud, a classmate, who died in April 1980. The Class of 1982 also made a contribution to the Law Alumni Association Fund Drive.

Tom Pelletier is joined by his wife Ruth and daughters Heather and Danielle for a post-graduation family photo. Tom was one of 69 graduates receiving the J.D. degree on May 30.

U.S. District Court Judge Conrad K. Cyr delivers the commencement address while Dean Wroth listens intently.

Thomas F. Monaghan of Portland, Vice-Chairman of the University of Maine Board of Trustees, brought greetings from the Board. The traditional charge to the graduating class was delivered by Dr. Robert L. Woodbury, President of the University of Southern Maine.

Musical accompaniment was provided by the Maine Chamber Players, a woodwind quintet composed of USM and UMO Music Department faculty members.
